The Horton Group

Requirements:

After competing in an aggressive bid process, The Horton Group selected Schroeder Solutions to work in conjunction with a local architect on the design of its new corporate office. The project objective was to create a professional work environment with an open appeal for this expanding group of professionals.

Recommendations:

Schroeder Solutions worked with The Horton Group to create an updated office environment. The design team selected Teknion Leverage work areas in order to provide the flexibility the client desired while meeting their budget needs. The Paoli private offices were specified in a combination of light maple and dark cherry wood finishes to complement the overall design direction of the interior. In order to maintain an open appeal within the office, light panel fabrics and glass inserts were incorporated throughout. The floor plan combined private offices with team oriented areas and utilized products such as nesting chairs, Expansion tables and Collaborative spaces to address the need for flexibility.
